February is a month of valentines, hearts, and little red dresses. Have you seen people wearing a little red dress pin on their jacket or shirt? This little red dress is in honor of "Go Red for Women," putting the emphasis on heart disease and how it affects women in our country.

According to the American Heart Association, the number 1 killer of women is heart disease. The website "Go Red for Women" is a great source of information about heart disease and women, including heart healthy recipes. Check out their website at <http://www.goredforwomen.org/> Be informed! Talk with your healthcare provider about things you, as a woman, can do to help prevent heart disease. Here's to your health!
